The Brookwater Group, Inc., a Construction Project Management company based in Delafield, Wisconsin, offers total project management and development services. The Brookwater Group will evaluate lean construction and design management techniques to better address your needs without overbuilding, budgeting, or overextending your team. Your project will come in at the right price because of their strong networks, and strategic alliances allow them to put the right people on your project. The Brookwater Group is made up of three branches. Brookwater Construction Consulting, Brookwater Creations, and Brookwater Farm. The Construction Consulting branch has been helping people make value-based decisions since 2001. A practical approach to commercial and residential projects challenges the way you think a contractor can aid you from concept to completion or anywhere in between.
