Kirksey Architecture is an architectural firm, offering design and planning services, whose corporate offices are in Houston, Texas. Divided into teams, each focusing on a specific market, but collaborating with one another, Kirksey specializes in commercial work, country clubs and spas, community or religious buildings, schools and educational buildings, government facilities, health care facilities, science and technology, and eco-services, as well as residential and interior architecture and renovations. Some of the firm's projects are highlighted on its web site, along with an industry blog.
