Corecon Technologies produces Corecon, a cloud-based software suite for small to mid-size engineering and construction firms. Headquartered in Huntington Beach, California, the company's flagship product provides lead tracking, estimating, project management, job cost control, and scheduling capabilities, allowing firms to manage their leads and projects more efficiently. A free mobile application is also available, intended for field personnel who may not have access to a laptop or desktop computer. Other products offered by Corecon can provide seamless integration with Microsoft Outlook accounting packages.
